ABSTRACT

Identifies and provides a brief description of the various print form of Malaysian legal sources which are available in the 1990's. Malayan Law Journal has been identified as the most prolific legal publisher in Malaysia. It is suggested that the various Government bodies should actively publish since they are the sole producer of legal information.

Keywords: Malaysian legal sources; Legislation; Law reports; Digests; Legal indexes; Legal bibliographies; Legal directories; Legal dictionaries

INTRODUCTION

Law is dynamic because its requirements and forms change with changing times and environment. As a result, new laws are constantly being promulgated and existing ones amended to suit these changes. This is reflected in the publication of the various sources of law that have proliferated rather rapidly worldwide.

In Malaysia itself, there has been a marked increase in the publication of the various Malaysian legal sources. In 1988, Shaikha Zakaria had outlined, in considerable detail, the various Malaysian legal sources that were available towards the end of the 1980's. Since then, numerous persons, government as well as commercial publishers have produced and published numerous Malaysian legal sources. This article will, therefore, attempt to briefly itemise the various legal sources that are available in the 1990s.

Malaysian legal sources can be broadly classified into primary and secondary sources. All materials listing laws that are formulated (by those vested with law-making powers) are referred to as the primary sources of law. These include:
